

EDITORIAL

The first year: The hardest!

Ciencia has survived its first year with the first two issues appeared. Our appreciation and thanks have to be directed to the authors who have submitted their manuscripts, to the rapid evaluations given to all manuscripts by the referees, to the scientists that have accepted to integrate the Editorial Board, to the indexing agencies covering this journal, to the CONDES' financial support and to the readers' critical judgment of the papers edited. There is a long way to go, gaining the trust and acceptance of our peers. Edition of a science journal is not a road of roses but still it will be a pleasure to do our best. CIENCIA is a multidisciplinary scientific journal that offer possibilities for publication, in areas related with Biology, Computer Sciences, Chemistry, Mathematics and Physics, to both national and foreign researchers. Citation of CIENCIA papers have started already and solely high quality research material will guarantee to keep and increase this pace.

Rome